David Oppelt attended his third NJNS zoom meeting and was voted into our club as a new Society member. Welcome to the NJNS and congratulations, David! Oppelt is a coin dealer from Connecticut who specializes in tokens, U.S. and world paper money and medals.

Walter Chinoy mentioned a fascinating report that he saw on CBS Sunday Morning about wooden money scrip being produced in Tenino, Washington. For more information, go to CBS news and search for "Wooden Money."

Society members discussed whether we should record our meetings for an NJNS archive. We agreed to discuss this matter further and poll our Society members.

Dr. Michael Fey gave a report on his free condensed two-hour zoom class on Morgan Dollars for the ANA that was held on July 8 from 12-2 p.m. Fey said the biggest challenge was condensing a five-day Summer Seminar course into a two-hour zoom event. Mike said that 502 people attended this class!

The show-and-tell included a Maris 51-G New Jersey Copper, 1778 Continental Congress Sixty Dollars Colonial Note, 1754 Bill from New Bern, North Carolina, 1775 NY Three Dollar Bill, 1754 North Carolina bill with Holy Bible depiction; Swiss 2/3 Thaler 1688 Archbishop Chur in VF; Three-groats 1602 Vilnius Mint Lithuanian Coin; Bronze Plaque of Dr. Dumontier by V.D. COIN CLUBBING

Garden State of Mind

New Jersey numismatists enrich their hobby experience through monthly meetings.

➤ It was September 24, 2018—the fourth Monday of the month, when the Trenton Numismatic Club meets at the library in Hamilton Township, New Jersey. I've been a club member since the mid-1980s and have served as an officer in the past. One of the reasons for the group's success and longevity (it was established in the 1950s) is that an educational event is planned for every meeting. That screen for everyone to see. It's a fun time for all.

Following that night's show-and-tell portion was a short break to give members a last opportunity to check out the lots in the numismatic auction. Then club president Drew Waholek introduced me as the guest speaker.

I stepped up to the audiovisual equipment and began my presentation. That evening's topic was "An Introduction to Collecting Colonial Paper Money." I started off by talking about the standard reference for colonial currency—the fifth edition of The Early Paper Money of America by Eric P. Newman. The importance of this book was discussed, along with how it evolved from the manuscript of Harley Freeman, who started his work from the published research of Henry Phillips (1865).

Then I proceeded to the fun part of the talk—showing actual bills and discussing the different methods of collecting them. I suggested members obtain just one example from our home state of New Jersey. The most common and affordable type is from March 1776. Some have a scarce signature—that of John Hart, signer of the Declaration of Independence—for which one would expect to pay a premium. Being that 1776 is a very popular year in America's history, acquiring a bill from both February and March would be a lot of fun. But even more fun would be to collect an example of every signature possible and/or a bill of every denomination authorized.

Moving on, I explained how I got interested in colonial paper when I saw above a friend's fireplace a set of beautifully framed bills from each of the 13 rebellious British-American colonies. And after a little research, I determined it would take me two or three years to form a collection like his. What a thrill it was to obtain that thirteenth bill! I strongly advised club members to give this challenge serious consideration.

Other options include collecting bills with spelling errors, famous signers or interesting vignettes. I also suggest obtaining Continental Congress issues by date and/or denomination. I projected many examples of these bills on the screen, and all seemed to enjoy them. The possibilities of collecting colonial paper money are limited only by your imagination.

Regardless of what you pursue, consider sharing the fun you have with others. I know of a hobbyist who stores his coins in a safe-deposit box. I suspect his holdings won't see the light of day until his death, when his family sells them for half their value. Don't be this guy. Use a variation of my talk to share your collection and passion with others. Your hobby will come to life for you.

particular night, I was scheduled to be the guest speaker. My numismatic friends know how much I enjoy sharing my little corner of the hobby whenever I can.

The meeting started on time at 7 p.m. with the Pledge of Allegiance, followed by club business and open discussion. There is a show-and-tell session that allows members to bring items from their collections to share with the group. These articles are placed under a video camera and projected on a

Pittsburgh Legacy Series to Welcome Don Everhart

Former U.S. Mint engraver will share stories.

➤ To recognize hobby icons and help create a record of their contributions, in 2015 the American Numismatic Association

nity. The events, held in conjunction with ANA conventions, are intended to honor individuals who have profoundly impacted the hobby and to give listeners a greater sense of the subjects' lives and achievements.

The 10th installment of this popular series will be conducted on Thursday, March 27, at 3 p.m. during the ANA National Money Show® at Pittsburgh's David L. Lawrence Convention Center (Room 414). In the spotlight will be multifaceted artist and former United States Mint Engraver Don Everhart.

Born in York, Pennsylvania, in 1949, Everhart attended Kutztown State University where he obtained a degree in fine arts with a concentration in painting in 1972. He was hired by The Franklin Mint in 1973; he became a staff sculptor a year later and went on to execute coinage for Guyana, Jamaica and the Philippines.

Everhart left The Franklin Mint in 1980 to pursue a freelance career. His clients included The Walt Disney Company, Tiffany & Co., Georgetown University and the British Royal Mint. In 1994 he received the American Numismatic Association's Numismatic Art Award for Excellence in Medallion Sculpture.

In 2004 Everhart joined the staff of the U.S. Mint as a sculptor-engraver and later was elevated to lead sculptor. He designed the curved reverse of the 2014 Baseball Hall of Fame half dollar, $1 and $5; the reverse of the 2015 March of Dimes $1; the reverse of the 2006 Nevada State Quarter; and the reverse of the 2006 Benjamin Franklin $1. In addition, he designed more than 30 Congressional Gold Medals and created and/or sculpted Presidential Medals for George W.

Bush and Barack Obama.

World Coin News presented Everhart with its Lifetime Achievement Award in 2017 at the World Money Fair in Berlin, Germany. His work is represented in the permanent collections of the Smithsonian Institution, The British Museum, the American Numismatic Society and the National Sculpture Society. He served the American Medallion Sculpture Association as president in 1993-94.

Everhart retired from the U.S. Mint in July 2017 and today pursues his craft in West Chester, Pennsylvania. His Legacy Series interview in Pittsburgh is free and open to all ANA members and guests, but reservations are required (see the National Money Show registration form on p. 22). Convention-goers who would like to learn more about the artist and his work are invited to attend Everhart's "Money Talks" presentation at 11 a.m. on Friday, March 28, in Room 411 (see p. 86).
